

Other Asian Girls

There are many young Asian girls who are born and brought up in England yet they are afraid to make choices, afraid to speak their mind, or brainwashed into thinking if they don't do as their parents say there is nowhere for them to go

OR

I feel the real reason they aspire to be nothing is because of the example set to them by their mothers, aunts, grandmothers etc.. No one encouraged them to be brave, make choices and be responsible.

Therefore they see it an easy option to marry who their parents suggest and then be bossed by their husbands. Which for them is the norm, because this is how they have grown up, watching their fathers, uncles, grandparents controlling the women – so it is OK for them.

These girls soon forget their dreams, their needs, and they repeat history and nothing changes for the women for many generations.
